fallout offers the reflections and observations of historian paul boyer on the fascinating and complex impact of the bomb in american life from the special perspective of a person who experienced and participated in the events and movements about which he writes boyer provides us with a rich understanding of nuclear reality in american thought and culture after 1945 the essays range widely from a discussion of the shattering impact of the news of hiroshima and nagasaki on a war weary nation in 1945 to ruminations on the 1995 enola gay controversy when a proposed fiftieth anniversary commemorative exhibit on the atomic bombing of japan at the smithsonian s national museum of american history generated bitter controversy intellectuals today cringe when a politician speaks of the second coming the millennium or the antichrist certain questions naturally arise about those who literally expect the end of the world in our day why do they think this why do some people believe them how do their exhortations work to persuade an audience and to move that audience to actions and commitments these are the motivating questions of contemporary apocalyptic rhetoric which describes apocalyptic as a rhetorical genre of discourse barry brummett first recasts insights drawn from past scholarly and theological studies to demonstrate their relevance to contemporary apocalyptic then examines a variety of real apocalyptic to illustrate the ways in which these rhetorical discourses actually work the discussion focuses on those strategies arguments and stylistic features that are peculiar to apocalyptic and that support its social and political claims following an introductory first chapter chapter two describes how apocalyptic rhetoric links a psychological context to an esoteric grand order underlying all of time and the cosmos chapter three compares premillennial and postmillennial apocalyptic on three dimensions to show the different approaches they take to reach their audiences chapter four describes specific rhetorical techniques designed to maintain a mystic persona and urge social and political commitments on audiences the final two chapters apply the author s theories to secular and religious apocalyptic both premillennial hal lindsey and ravi batra and postmillennial francis fukuyama contemporary apocalyptic rhetoric will appeal to readers across many disciplines including communications religion sociology and psychology
